ABOUT THE STATE Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

Rutland and Northfield have at last received some road oil and are laving the dust on their streets.

Charles E. Crane, manager and editor of the Middlebury Register, has been forced again to give up his work account of ill health. He has gone to a sanatorium in Massachusetts for a six weeks' stay.

When the Community chautauqua af fairs in Springfield were straightened out, it was found that the guarantors are about $125 out of pocket, while the chautauqua management realized a profit of about $400.

The board of village trustees in Bennington has placed the taboo on all carnivals, wild west and trained animal shows for the remainder of the present season, business men and merchants of the town having protested against the encouragement of such enterprises during the period of uncertainty of business conditions in the

The game preserve of 1,000 acres situated at the mouth of the Lamoille iver, will be enclosed within a few days and posted, so that part of the country will be shut off from sportsmen to provide a refuge for game, particularly ducks and pheasants. The grounds are now thickly inhabited by hirds. The wood duck, which was nearly extinct a few years ago, is coming back in the forests of the preserve in large numbers.

The deer, with several others, had done considerable damage to Mr. Long's oat crop. When he shot the deer, there were six others in the Claude Tovani, a North Adams, Mass., young man, died at the hospital in that city last week from wounds received while he was hunting at Howe's pond, Readsboro, where he had been camping with two other young men for a week. Spying a woodchuck pital, 12 m. to 5 p. m. and wishing to save the pelt from being spoiled by firing at it, Tovani attempted to kill the animal by clubbing it with the butt of the gun, which hospital, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. was discharged and the shot penetrated the hunter's abdomen. Several large tal, 12:30 to 5 p. m. wounds were made and the man lived but a few hours.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEAD.

of whom are living, DeWitt and D. Wealey, both of Chester.

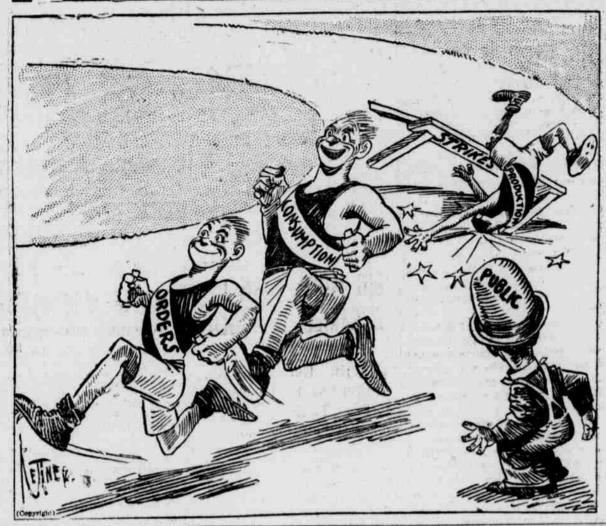

Mr. Davis had followed the merchant business for 50 years, which was probably the oldest in the state, being a member of the firm of Adams & Davis Co. He had represented this town in the legislature and had held other prominent offices of trust.

He was a member of Company D. 18th Vt. infantry in the Civil war, and saw hard service. During one of the severe battles he had his cap shot from his head and when he picked it up the bullet was inside the cap, which he has always kept.

Mr. Davis was a charter member of Hugh Henry post, G. A. R., was past commander and a prominent worker in the post. He was the oldest member of Olive branch order, F. and A. M., and had held all the principal offices and for 25 years or more he had held the office of treasurer. When a young man and in his cierking days it was nothing for him to lift s barrel of sugar from the store floor into a wagen.
